GEORGE VI IS FORMALLY PROCLAIMED NEW KING

Proclaim New King In Pomp And Pageantry

Glitter Of Ceremony Not Dimmed By Gloom Of Weather Of Day

PUBLIC SPECTACLE SEEN BY THOUSANDS

Coronation To Take Place On Date Originally Set For Edward

LONDON, Dec. 12.—While his abdicated brother paced the deck of a British destroyer on his way to self-imposed exile in some foreign clime, George VI was formally proclaimed king-emperor this afternoon in a ritual of pomp and pageantry.

National sorrow over former King Edward's renunciation of his throne to marry Mrs. Wallis Simpson—"the woman I love"—and a chill, drizzling rain, could not dim the color and majesty attendant upon the proclamation of a new British king.

Even the fact that the same ceremony was carried out less than a year ago when Edward succeeded to the throne on the death of his father failed to diminish Britain's enthusiasm for the great public spectacle that signified formal end of the ex-king's reign and the installation of his successor.

Heralds Proclaim Succession

Brilliantly uniformed heralds marching to the roll of drums, proclaimed George's accession to man-moth crowds of cheering subjects in Trafalgar Square, Charing Cross and elsewhere, while Parliament, assembled in joint session, swore undying allegiance to the new king.

Previously, King George had taken the oath of office before his privy council in ancient St. James' palace. In the traditional language of the ceremony, the brightly-garbed privy councillors "with one voice and consent of heart and tongue," confirmed his accession to the throne.

Traffic was suspended all the way from St. James' palace in the heart of the west end, to the Royal Exchange, in the center of the "city," as London's financial district is known.

Troops in khaki uniforms lined the streets and scores of military bands played the national anthem as the accession heralds slowly made their way through the capital to proclaim George as king.

PA NEW OBSERVES

C. B. Mack and son, Glenn Wallis of 507 East Moody avenue, New Castle, and Frank Sanko, J. H. Filby and the latter's son John of Edensburg have returned from the vicinity of Bradford where Filby got a four-point deer and Mack brought down a 10-point buck.

Holiday Christmas decorations are beginning to make their appearance in the homes. Pa News noted a number of lighted wreaths in windows of a Leesburg home last night.

A long line of lighted flares along the New Wilmington road near the Johnston property, was rather a surprise to motorists. It was discovered that some tests were being made of trucks and buses by highway patrolmen.

Traffic Over Viaduct Starts This Afternoon

Late this afternoon the formal ceremonies will have been completed and the new Edenburg viaduct and elevated roadway improvement will be open for traffic permanently. The highway takes a new route, eliminating traffic through Edenburg, and will greatly facilitate through travel on the route. Indications are that the new highway will witness a notable increase of traffic as a result of this improvement.

The opening exercises were due to start at 2:30 o'clock with Judge W. Walter Braham in charge as chair-

No Action Taken On Westminster Library Plans

Delay Is Caused In Program To Award Building Contract

MAY TAKE ACTION DURING NEXT WEEK

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 12—William Duff, chairman of the library committee of the board of trustees of Westminster College, today informed International News Service a meeting of his committee here considered but did not approve plans for the construction of a new library at the college.

"The plans for the new library had my committee's consideration at a meeting in my office here late yesterday," Duff said, "but no action of any sort was taken. Approval of the plans was for the time being withheld. It is likely the committee will meet again next week, at which time some action may be taken."

Duff also revealed that bids for the library contract have already been received by the committee, but that pending final decision on the plans, will not be voted upon.

MILL WORKER DIES SUDDENLY

William M. Keith, Rigger At Shenango Works, Suffers Heart Attack

William Michael Keith, aged 59, of 1219 South Jefferson street, a rigger employed at the Shenango Works of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, died suddenly while at his work at 10:20 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Keith was working on top of one of the buildings, when he collapsed. Fellow workers carried him to the mill hospital, where he was pronounced dead. Apparently an acute heart attack was responsible, Corrine Orville Potter, stated.

Mr. Keith was born in Sharpsville, Pa., March 18, 1877, and had been a resident of New Castle for 53 years. He had been employed at the Shenango Works for a long time. He was married to Florence Irene Wagner, 33 years ago, who survives with one son, Norman E. Keith. He also leaves two sisters, Mrs. Ella Ritzle of Youngstown, and Mrs. Percy Simpson, of the Butler road, and one brother, Charles.

Mr. Keith's father was buried just a week ago today. Arrangements for the funeral will be announced later.

International News Service
NEW YORK, Dec. 12—Officials of American broadcasting companies estimated today that at least 250,000,000 persons, scattered in all parts of the world, heard former King Edward's radio valedictory from Windsor Castle.

In the United States, the king's listeners were estimated at 95,000,000, and the world total was believed to have comprised the largest radio audience in history.

The speech was brought to the United States by short wave, and then relayed to the national network for re-broadcasting.

Canada Proclaims George VI As King

(International News Service)

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 12—The drama of a week, in which the British empire lost one king and raised another to the throne, ended for Canadians at 10:10 a. m. today, when Hon. W. L. MacKenzie King, prime minister, read the proclamation announcing George VI sovereign.

Short Ceremony.

In a short ceremony, the privy councillors subscribed to an ancient proclamation in antique phraseology, saying by the "desire of the crown" it has "solely and rightfully come to the high and mighty Prince Albert Frederick Arthur George."

With Edward somewhere on the silent seas, the councillors acknowledged "all faith and constant obedience with all hearty and humble affection" to George.

A long, swelling roar rolled along

Piccadilly, marking the progress of King George, while guards and police opened a way for him through the vast concourse of his people.

He wore an admiral's uniform, symbolic of his love of the sea and his war-time experience in charge of

of a gun crew in the battle of Jut-

King Drives Up.

The king drove up to the courtyard of St. James at 11:29, nearly half an hour after the councillors had assembled.

The crowd meanwhile had been treated to the picturesque parade of the councillors as they strolled into the palace.

Dignitaries arriving included

Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin,

Neville Chamberlain and Sir Austen

Chamberlain, the archbishops of Canterbury and York, the lord mayor of London and the sheriffs of the city of London and the peers of the realm.

All wore the black and gold uniforms and plumed hats of councillors, their breasts studded with gleaming decorations and bright with the ribbons of high orders.

All were received at the palace entrance by the young Duke of Norfolk, the hereditary Earl Marshall, who has charge of coronations and the heralding today of the king's accession.

"God Save the King."

"God save the king!" shouted the crowd outside his Piccadilly residence as George emerged. "Long live the king."

Fitgetting at the trappings on his naval uniform, he was palpably nervous. He appeared unable to make up his mind whether to ignore the crowd or salute. Finally he smiled and waved his hand.

With his suite, he drove first to Buckingham palace in a scarlet and maroon state automobile, the royal standard flying in front. From Buckingham he motored to nearby St. James.

By that time he had composed himself and returned the tide of cheers with a grave salute.

The ceremony in the palace throne room, its routine punctuated old, went smoothly and quickly.

George Enters.

The councillors first took their oaths of allegiance, then George entered from the picture gallery.

He made the customary accession declaration, then subscribed to the oath guaranteeing the security of the Church of Scotland.

Sombre fog hung over London on this second day of the new king's reign, and the cheers and pageantry could not erase the bitter memories of Edward's choice. He had said farewell to them—not they to him.

His subjects spoke of him as if he were dead. Press mention of him was like obituaries.

"Edward's not dead," one cockney said. "Just buried alive."

Queen Elizabeth, who is required to take no oath, remained in the Piccadilly residence early in the day.

Princess Elizabeth, the 10-year-old heir presumptive, still unaware that she is next in line to the throne, found that school went on as usual, even if her father was king.

His servants had preceded him by cross-channel steamer.

Departure Is Flight

Having renounced his throne, having told his people he could not rule, "without the help and support of the woman I love," and having bade his family a touching farewell, Edward made his departure a veritable flight.

The car screamed through the black night immediately after his world broadcast roaring through villages and over England's narrow winding roads.

About 1 a.m., it shot into Portsmouth—where only a month ago Edward as king reviewed his mighty fleet. Without slowing down, the car roared under the unicorn gate and up to the residence of Admiral Sir William Fisher, where Edward rested while his baggage was stowed aboard the Fury.

Hurries Up Gangplank

For a few minutes there was bustle and confusion on the warship. Then Edward hurried up the gangplank.

There were no cheers, no salutes from the ship's guns; no sound except that of the waves slapping against the iron sides of the ship and the clank of its chains.

ANNUAL TURKEY DINNER NEW YEARS

An annual event eagerly anticipated by members of the 1914 Book club and their husbands is the turkey dinner which always takes place on New Year's Day.

This year it will be held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Butler, on North Jefferson street. The committee includes Mrs. Thomas Ashcom and Mrs. W. W. Campbell, of New Wilmington, Mrs. W. L. Beal, Mrs. B. F. Butler, Mrs. J. R. Cooper and Mrs. W. G. Eckles.

Plans for the affair were discussed at the regular club meeting on Thursday in the home of Mrs. Harry H. Preston, Lincoln avenue, when a 1 o'clock luncheon was enjoyed.

The usual book exchange followed and the balance of the time was spent in wrapping gifts for Almira Home residents which will be taken to them a few days before Christmas.

The next regular meeting is scheduled for January 8 at 1 o'clock, in the home of Mrs. C. E. Trainer, Lincoln avenue.

DINNER-GIFTS MARK W. C. CLUB YULE PARTY

A beautifully full course dinner party marked the annual Yuletide celebration for members of the W. C. club, when they gathered in the home of Mrs. Fred Steckel, slate street, Thursday evening.

Brilliant ornaments decorated the large table and the rooms also donned a Christmas appearance with colors of green and red. Following the serving of a delicious menu, an exchange of gifts took place. The balance of the evening was spent informally with conversation. Music contributions by the hostess son, Ralph, delighted the assembly, as an added feature.

This event concludes this year's activities for club associates, and plans for their next meeting will be announced.

PEACE CONFERENCE TOPIC AT MEETING

A resume of the recent inter-American Peace conference in Buenos Aires attended by the president of the United States, was given by Mrs. B. H. Kannenberg at the meeting of the International Relations department of the Woman's club in the home of Mrs. W. L. Cosel, North Mercer street, Thursday afternoon.

An interesting discussion afterwards was worthwhile as it brought out many important points. Mrs. J. J. McIlvaine acted as chairman for the meeting, assisting Mrs. G. W. Short, department chairman. There were ten or eleven present including one visitor, Mrs. Herbert Kirk. Tea was served.

Old Time Rebekahs

Mrs. Anna Crowe, of 1102 Dewey avenue, entertained the Old Time Rebekahs at a covered dish luncheon at her residence. The afternoon was passed pleasantly with fancy work and the exchange of Christmas gifts.

The next meeting will be on Wednesday, January 13, at the home of Mrs. Zella George, Pine street.

ANNUAL TURKEY DINNER NEW YEARS

An annual event eagerly anticipated by members of the 1914 Book club and their husbands is the turkey dinner which always takes place on New Year's Day.

This year it will be held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Taylor, 103 Terrace avenue, and Arthur Oberleitner, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Oberleitner, of 614 West Washington street.

The single ring service was witnessed by Mr. and Mrs. John L. Oberleitner, the former a brother of the groom.

The bride was very becomingly attired in a gown of coronation blue with which her velvet accessories harmonized.

Following the congratulatory period, a wedding dinner was served the bridal party at a tastefully arranged table in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oberleitner.

Mrs. Oberleitner has been showered with an array of beautiful gifts for use in her new home, which is located at 428 Neshannock avenue.

MOTHERS CIRCLE HAS PARTY FRIDAY

Mrs. C. B. George, of Pine street, charmingly entertained the Mother's Circle of the First M. E. church at her home Friday evening.

It was a particularly enjoyable gathering, with a Christmas program and exchange of gifts and the members were very pleased to have with them a few of their number who had been on the sick list.

The president, Mrs. J. Louer, presided at the business meeting. Devotions were in charge of Mrs. Thos. Frazier and the program was in charge of Mrs. George.

Christmas carols were read by Miss Alma Locke, including "The Special Guest" and "The Holy Well." The usual book exchange followed and the balance of the time was spent in wrapping gifts for Almira Home residents which will be taken to them a few days before Christmas.

Special guests were Miss Locke, Miss Jane Taylor, Miss Elinor Black and Mrs. Margaret McCreary, daughter of the hostess.

Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. George, Mrs. David Taylor, Mrs. W. O. Mayberry, Mrs. Sam McBride and Mrs. E. Withers.

BIBLE CLASS MEETS AT MACKEY HOME

Members of the Young Married Peoples Bible Class held their monthly social meeting Friday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mackey of 11 Laurel avenue, with Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Lusk serving as co-hosts. Games occupied the earlier hours of the evening and a business session was conducted by President Harry Lach.

The losing side in the recent membership competition staged within the class, will banquet the winners of the contest on the night of Friday, December 18, in the church dining room.

Royal Neighbors Meet

Mrs. Bertha Beahm, of 12 East Moody avenue, opened her home on Friday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock to the members of Camp 250, Royal Neighbors of America.

The hours were passed very enjoyably with games of 500. The prize for high score was won by Mrs. Mary A. Gilliland. The exchange of Christmas gifts was also a pleasant part of the afternoon program.

With deep regrets Miss Alma Broadhead was unable to be present to give a talk on foreign missionary work.

A delicious lunch was served by Mrs. Beahm, assisted by Mrs. Mabel Henderson and Mrs. Maud Dibbley. The guests of the camp were Mrs. Charles McKeever and Mrs. Mary A. Gilliland.

The gathering will be remembered as a very happy affair by everyone who attended.

VADE-MECUM MEMBERS PLAN CHRISTMAS PARTY

At the 1:30 o'clock dessert-bridge party held Thursday afternoon by members of the Vade-Mecum association with Mrs. Homer Gardner of Boyles avenue, hostess, plans were made for their Christmas party. The affair will take place at the Elks club rooms on Friday afternoon, December 18, in the form of a 1 o'clock luncheon, and gifts will be exchanged. The time following was spent informally.

After the serving of dessert, attention was given to cards with Mrs. Charles Fleming and Mrs. Frank Taylor receiving the awards.

L. D. K. Society

Mrs. Sophie Thompson, of Beckford street, had the members of the L. D. K. Missionary Society of the Third U. P. church at her home Thursday evening.

Mrs. Marie Burdett was in charge of a business meeting during which plans to appropriate money to aid in the support of the foreign missionary, Rev. James D. Brown, who has departed for India, were made.

The home was decorated brightly with the Christmas colors. Gifts were exchanged among the members and games were enjoyed.

Mrs. Thompson, assisted by Mrs. Alice Rapson, served a tasty lunch. Special guests were Jean Rapson and Geraldine Kline.

A joint meeting with the other two societies of the church in the form of a tureen dinner, will take place in January.

ANNUAL TURKEY DINNER NEW YEARS

An annual event eagerly anticipated by members of the 1914 Book club and their husbands is the turkey dinner which always takes place on New Year's Day.

This year it will be held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Taylor, 103 Terrace avenue, and Arthur Oberleitner, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Oberleitner, of 614 West Washington street.

The single ring service was witnessed by Mr. and Mrs. John L. Oberleitner, the former a brother of the groom.

The bride was very becomingly attired in a gown of coronation blue with which her velvet accessories harmonized.

Following the congratulatory period, a wedding dinner was served the bridal party at a tastefully arranged table in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oberleitner.

Mrs. Oberleitner has been showered with an array of beautiful gifts for use in her new home, which is located at 428 Neshannock avenue.

GEORGE VI

KING GEORGE VI will come to the British throne bringing the major essentials of character and stability requisite to a happy, successful reign over Britain's far-flung empires.

Although he has voluntarily effaced himself in favor of the more picturesque heir to the throne, now abdicated, the Duke of York has endeared himself to the all-important Navy by his long service therein; he has won the appellation "Industrial Prince" by his sincere solicitude for workers; he has a tie with Parliament, as a member of the House of Lords, which is not negligible in these days of stress; the Laborites are friendly to him, and he has made a good impression in Canada and Australia, where he has visited suggests the Philadelphia Inquirer.

The new King's personal qualities include reticence, sincerity, perseverance, a serious and studious nature, a love of home and family, and a strong humanitarian zeal. He has proven that he is eager to learn, and his new position will give him plenty of opportunity.

But it is through his charming family that he makes his major appeal to Great Britain in this hour of contrasts. The new Queen, as the Duchess of York, has been gracious, lovable, friendly and hospitable. Not only because she is of the proud Scottish blood of the Earl of Strathmore, her father, but because of her personal regality, she can make England a revered Queen.

The two daughters, the Princess Elizabeth, ten, and Margaret Rose, six, the former the heiress presumptive to the throne, also accentuate Great Britain's court family, affording new opportunity for highly-regarded court pageantry. All in all, the coronation should provide a new solidification of British sentiment and government, centering around this appealing household.

MARRIAGES AND MONEY

To the other conditions blamed on the depression add the pronouncement that our nation is still 750,000 weddings behind schedule, and there is only a minor consolation in the quick reminder that because of this shortage we have 171,000 fewer divorces on the records.

Samuel Stouffer and Lyle M. Spencer, sociologists at the University of Chicago, bear these dubious tidings, and surmise that we will be overjoyed because 1935 was the "marryingest" yet also the "divorcingest" year in our history.

Apparently divorces rise and fall with marriages simply on the law of averages. It would be disquieting if we should have to believe that marital restlessness gains with fuller purses, and that increasing prosperity has a harmful effect on solidarity of the American home.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY

An airplane crash is usually a double tragedy. Not only does it often result in the death of many or all of the passengers, but, more often than not, the victims include one or more persons of such importance that the world cannot easily afford to lose them.

Such was the case of the K. L. M. Dutch airliner that crashed at Croydon this week. Among the fourteen persons who were killed was Juan de la Cierva, the inventor of the autogiro. Mr. de la Cierva was a key man in the development of the autogiro, and upon his experiments and inventive genius was largely centered the hope that his discoveries and improvements might play a significant part in the future of aviation.

It is men such as Mr. de la Cierva that society can least afford to part with in the prime of their years and their work. Yet it is just such men who are most likely to employ airplanes as a means of travel and whose lives are lost in case of accident.

STILL GROPING

What is the precise extent of unemployment in the United States? A number of estimates have been made within recent months, among them the following:

United States Chamber of Commerce—4,000,000.

New York Sun—6,000,000.

National Industrial Conference Board—9,000,000.

American Federation of Labor—11,000,000.

Obviously, these differences call for some authentic guide which the government can follow in charting its future course. The financing of relief and recovery cannot be done with intelligence and prudence so long as no one knows definitely just what need exists.

There is a good chance, fortunately, that the forthcoming session of congress will witness the enactment of long overdue legislation calling for a reliable count by government experts.

If the nation is ever to escape the tentacles of unrestrained spending, it must first procure an exact estimate as to the real demand for government aid.

Ex-King Edward should have known that the European scene, as now constituted, is no place for love anyway.

There was less heart failure in the old days. Men of 50 didn't think exercise would make them young again.

It seems hardly worth while to buy the three-year-old a toy hamster for Christmas if he hasn't a baby grand piano to go to work on.

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)
PRINCETON, N. J.—Dr. Harold W. Dodds, president of Princeton university, expressed gratification at the success of his unofficial ban on drinking at football games. "The general atmosphere in which our football games were played this year harmonized with the fine sportsmanship exhibited on the field."

PASADENA, CAL.—R. H. Tolley, administrator, discusses supreme court decisions: "If I understand the temper of the farmers correctly they are in no mood to let legalistic barriers and fine-spin interpretations keep them from having equality with large corporations in meeting nation-wide problems of production."

NEW YORK—General Hugh S. Johnson describes a politico-economic impasse: "Demand for government supervision of industry is an irresistible force, and the supreme court is an immovable object."

CHICAGO—Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago crime commission, reports on a conference of attorneys and public officials against parole abuses: "Our discussion was

The King Kept His Word.
May He Live Happily.
Mrs. Runyon's Rich Friend.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

MEN HAVE fought desperately through the ages, risking death and torture, to gain or retain a throne. King Edward, wise, undoubtedly, in view of modern conditions and his own personality, gives up a throne that could be made by far the most powerful in the history of the world. He abandons forever, the hereditary right to rule over 500,000 human beings in his own empire, and will rule hereafter a valet, butler, cook, chauffeur, airplane pilot and an occasional head waiter.

THE WORLD says thoughtlessly: "He had to choose between the throne and the woman he loves and gave up the throne: how magnificent."

Magnificent, perhaps, but perhaps not necessary. Many in the past have kept "the woman they loved" and the throne also sometimes several women that they loved. What has happened in England demonstrates, as history has done over and over, a fact upon which rests the safety of the nations, from the dangers of permanent tyranny.

THE MASSES of people ceaselessly breed strong men, the throne and the life around it breeds weakness. Powerful French kings are followed by the rois faineants or "do nothing" kings.

The terrible Jenghiz Khan, conquers all the world, within reach, builds huge pyramids with the skulls of his enemies dies and feebleness follows him on the throne.

While the throne and royalty of England were creating an Earl George, the forests and unknown lands of America were building the young surveyor George Washington; and this has happened at intervals throughout all human history, shifting power gradually into the hands of the masses of mankind.

Those masses may demonstrate in the Spanish war, in European and Asiatic hatreds, in the inefficiency of United States government, that they are not yet ready for power or able to use it wisely. But they must learn to use it, and we will as each child learns to walk.

IT IS NOT necessary to tell ambitious young American women, who take royalty and titles seriously, how Mrs. Simpson will feel when she marries what is left of the "king of England and Emperor of India".

No "Your Majesty", no courts, no garden, not even an occasional visit to London: the former king has promised never again to set foot within the British empire, and NO CORONATION.

Grasping at the substance and seizing the shadow would be describing it feebly. The American girl who might have been queen and empress, may not know at this moment what her married name will be. The former king will probably retain and use some one of his many titles, but not "king", not "His Royal and Imperial Majesty".

CITY AND COUNTRY

I LIKE the city....it's a grand place to be.

I like the mass of it. I like the movement of it. I like its beauty and I like even its ugliness.

I like the feel of being part of so huge a thing....I like the parks, the zoos, the high sky-flouting structures the trains rushing in, the great ships sliding out.

I like the speed of it. I like even its traffic jams.

I like the paintings, the sculpture, the music of a great city....the glittering shop windows, the variety of it, the panorama of races in its crowds, the rush of the fire engines, the movement of the crowds in the morning and again at night, the newsboys and the street peddlars and the tourists and the arrogance of the pretty ladies.

And I like it at night when it's all dark up there and all bright down here, and on a wet night the black streets shine so beautifully and the advertising signs make such loveliness against that blackness.

I like the roar and force of the city.

I like the quiet rhythms of the country....I like the seclusion....I like its solidity and even the loneliness. I like the bare trees in winter, the sweet green of spring....I like the independence of the country man, the way he works, the way he endures his disappointments and reaps his harvest, too.

I like the closeness to the stars and the winds and the rain. I like the strength and the health of the country.

But I like the country.

I like the comfort of it, the natural beauty of it....like the wide green fields, the tall, towering hills....The changing charm of the landscape at dawn, at dusk....The scream of a hawk, even the slow drift of a buzzard in the air....The cluck of the hens, the barking of dogs, the whir of the quail, the moo of the mildly impatient cattle.

I like the quiet rhythms of the country....I like the seclusion....I like its solidity and even the loneliness. I like the bare trees in winter, the sweet green of spring....I like the independence of the country man, the way he works, the way he endures his disappointments and reaps his harvest, too.

Union Cast Stars With New Fires

Senior Performers Give Comedy Before Large Crowd Last Night

New dramatic heights were scored when a talented cast of Union township high school seniors presented "New Fires," Charles Q. Burdette's lively three-act comedy, before a crowd that filled the Union high school auditorium last night.

The well-rehearsed players gave the production as a benefit for the fund which supports the publication of Union's senior yearbook, "Utopia."

Audience Enjoys It

The presentation, done in a manner that fully deserves the warmest of praise, entertained the Union audience for some time and as each act closed the feeling of the audience found expression in heavy applause. It was one of Union's finest play productions.

The cast was a capable one. The crowd enjoyed the acting of the entire cast, but perhaps Robert Elmore, playing a country doctor's role; Marsh Miller, playing Billy, and Wanda Thatcher, as Phyllis, were outstanding. Shirley Stowe, as Anne, and Jack Pattison, as Author Stephen Santry, were fine, too.

Cast Of Performers

The complete cast follows: Lucinda Andrews, a widow, Ruth Buchanan.

Suzanne Toler, a spinster, June Sherrard.

Sid Sperry, a farm hand, Dale Whiting.

Jerry, his son, Ralph Baird.

Stephen Santry, an author, Jack Pattison.

Billy, his son, Marsh Miller. Phyllis, his daughter, Wanda Thatcher.

Anne, his wife, Shirley Stowe. Olive, an older daughter, Vera Teece.

Eve, Dick's wife Marjorie Merchant.

Dick, the older son, George Heckart.

Doctor Lynn Gray, a country physician, Robert Elmore.

Mary Marshall, a neighbor, Elizabeth Monica.

Mrs. Marshall, Mary's mother, Anna Coates.

Directing the play cast was Milton Pattison while Miss Elma Robinson was the assistant director. Miss Josephine Wallace handled the costume work and Merrill Young took charge of scenery arrangements.

Huron G. Smyth was the production's manager.

Other competent aides were: Miss Fern Cloak, handling advertising; Joe Thompson, stage manager; Jay G. Rudolph, tickets; Robert Duff, music; Supervising Principal Roy F. Conway, program, and R. H. Thompson, lights. Usheers included Walter Burkhardt, John Leonard, Robert Cowher and Clayton Hofmeister.

Some Workers Are Being Restored

By order of the Harrisburg office of the Works Progress Administration, a number of employees who had been laid off in District 14 are being reinstated, J. Vale Downie stated today.

Under the new order persons who were laid off and are candidates for reinstatement must answer a questionnaire as to their status, and whether or not they are entirely dependent upon aid for support. The requests for reinstatement are being handled through the intake and certification department.

Just how many will be reinstated is not known, but it is hoped that the district may be permitted to get back to its 12,500 quota. At present the total is approximately 10,000.

Sears Roebuck Wins First Prize

Two Other Awards Made In Electric Appliance Display Contest

Sears Roebuck company won first prize, W. F. Dufford company, second prize and Meyer & Weiler, third prize, in a window display contest by local electric dealers sponsored by the Pennsylvania Power company. Marvin Electric company, Nu-Enamel New Castle company and Colaluca Brothers, were given honorable mention. Photographs of the displays were taken. The local winners will visit with winners in the Greenville-Sharon district contest for a grand prize.

The Electrical Appliance dealers of this city entered into the contest sponsored by the power company. A special effort was made in the sale of electric appliances, backed up by a special window display by each dealer.

The power company offered three prizes for the three windows which in the estimation of the judges, showed the greatest sales appeal; greatest visible effort and originality on the part of dealers and best use of available space.

The judges were from firms not competing and were as follows: DeLace Cole, W. J. Oftuff & Company; A. L. Bintz, New Castle Dry Goods company and William E. Laugen, J. C. Penny company. There were 14 dealers entered.

In Religious and Fraternal Circles

Croton M. E. Society.

The Women's Home Missionary society of the Croton M. E. church met in the home of Mrs. Floyd McClelland, Dewey avenue, Thursday evening. Mrs. E. Blaine led the devotional period, and an article, "Negro Spirituals", was given by Mrs. Clyde Bishop.

Christmas letters from home and schools of the society were received and read by several, and a "Mite Box Monologue" was given by Mrs. Anna Harris. A missionary playlet followed with Mrs. C. H. Hauger, Mrs. E. Blaine and Mrs. T. C. Armstrong taking part.

The hostess with her committee of aides, Mrs. Ida White, Mrs. C. J. Kenehan and Mrs. George Schuler, served refreshments afterwards.

Stevenson Circle Meets.

The Stevenson Circle of the First M. E. church met with Mrs. J. W. Neff on Winter avenue Thursday evening for their usual assembly. In the absence of their president, Mrs. John Butler, the first vice-president, Mrs. W. H. Shipler presided. Mrs. J. K. Heess led the devotions.

After a discussion of future activities, Mrs. J. B. Kannenberg gave a review of the chapter study book "Perils and Burdens of Women of the Congo State". She gave her topic in an especially interesting and gracious manner, dwelling on several outstanding facts.

A beautiful Christmas story, "The Star of Bethlehem", was read by Mrs. W. H. Shipler as the concluding feature on the program.

Refreshments were served by the hostess with Mrs. Charles Reinhart, Mrs. Phoebe Patton, Mrs. E. C. Kelllogg, Mrs. J. K. Heess and Mrs. E. C. Chapman as aides.

A tureen dinner and Christmas party will be enjoyed by the Daniel Leasure Camp, Spanish-American War Veterans, the auxiliary and families of members, Monday evening at 6:30 in the Legion Home.

A program will be presented; at the close the men and women will have separate business meetings. The auxiliary plans to nominate officers.

GIRL SCOUTS

JULIETTE LOWE TROOP

Thursday evening in the First Christian church, a meeting was held for the Girl Scouts of Troop Three.

It was opened by repeating the Girl Scout promise after which an inspection was held. Next there was a game played in which the girls reviewed their tenderfoot work.

Mrs. C. M. England and Mrs. W. H. Hanger were guests. During the evening the former presented Betty Lou Montgomery, Betty Jane Hinebaugh, Doris Anne Bennett, Jane Walls and Marjorie Harris with Girl Scout compacts, and June Nelson with a Girl Scout bracelet for selling over 50 boxes of cookies during the Girl Scout sale.

Some amusing stunts were presented by several of the patrols. The remainder of the evening was spent working on scrap books which the girls expect to finish next week. To close the meeting, the girls repeated the Troop benediction.

Young People Have Dinner On Friday Queen Esther Group Meet At Local Home

Methodist Church Bible Class Have Christmas Party At Church

Exchange Of Gifts Is Feature Of Missionary Group At December Meeting

On Friday evening, members of the Young People's Bible class of the Mahoning M. E. church, gathered at the church for a tureen dinner and Christmas party.

Covers were laid for twenty-four at two long tables attractively arranged and centered with miniature Christmas trees. The meal progressed by candle light.

Devotionals were led by Mary Ellen Shanafelt. The president, Martha Louise Mauck, presided over the business session and led in a discussion on the study book. One new member was present, Patricia Anne Taylor.

Later a delicious lunch was served by the hostess aided by her mother, Mrs. E. G. Gilbert. Tones of green and red were used in the decorations.

The next meeting on January 8 will be held at the home of Harriet Leighty on West Clayton street.

GUILD MEETS ON FRIDAY EVENING

IN PHILADELPHIA

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 12.—The retail price of gasoline was increased a cent and a half a gallon today in the metropolitan area.

Motorists now will pay 17½ cents for the leading brands and 16 cents at the independent stations. Gasoline dealers claimed the maritime strike is reducing the supply.

Later in the evening a tempting buffet lunch is being held in the Elks home for all employees who worked on the Edensburg viaduct.

Mr. Rice's leg is still in a cast and it will probably be some time before he will be able to be about again.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends, neighbors and relatives for kindness and sympathy extended us during the illness and death of our wife and mother, Cecilia Rhodes; also for flowers and cars donated.

EDWARD RHODES & FAMILY

Adv. It*

THE KING will be respected because he chose to keep his word to Mrs. Simpson rather than to keep his crown. His friends will wish that he had done both, and that Baldwin had not won the battle against the "great danger of an American woman becoming queen of England".

The fact that the king chose to disregard Mrs. Simpson's generous offer to release him from any obligation is greatly to his credit.

Many would have been better pleased had the king said to Baldwin:

"I am going to marry the lady."

MISS DOROTHY THEIS ENTERTAINS CLUB

Miss Dorothy Theis, Ray street, entertained members of the G. G. club when they gathered in her home Thursday evening for their regular meeting. A short business session was conducted by Miss Peggy Jennings, president of the club. At this time Carol Ransome was elected as press correspondent for the group.

Informal chat along with a fortune telling game, proved very entertaining and the evening hours were passed most enjoyably. Plans were discussed for the annual New Year's Eve party, and a report of the committee in charge was given by Helen McCollum.

Later, refreshments were served in the dining room which was adorned in Christmas decorations and favors. Miss Theis was aided in the serving by her mother, Mrs. Joe Theis and by Lorraine Kilbreath. Margaret Stevenson was a special guest.

JOLLY QUILTERS.

On Thursday, ten Jolly Quilters gathered in the Monroe street home of Mrs. William Anderson to continue their work at the regular pasture. One special guest was present, Mrs. Phillips Kiesel.

After enjoying the usual tasty turkey dinner at noon, the women planned a Christmas party for January 2, at which the husbands will be honored guests. The affair will also be held in the William Anderson home on Monroe street.

1932 CLUB TO MEET

Tuesday afternoon 1:30, Mrs. John Robinson, Court street, will entertain the members of the 1932 club with an afternoon of card playing, when they gather for their regular meeting.

Submit Papers On Tuberculosis

School Newspaper Contest
Under Auspices Of Anti-
Tuberculosis Society
Ends

PAPERS ARE BEING JUDGED

Evidence that there are plenty of budding journalists in the district is contained in the newspapers submitted by the different schools of the county in the contest sponsored by the Lawrence County Anti-Tuberculosis Society, for the best school newspaper. The contest closed Thursday evening.

The judges in the contest, who have already started to work are going to have a difficult time in judging the best paper submitted, as there were some real works of art compiled by the pupils of the city and county schools.

In addition, the pupils in compiling these newspapers learned the history of the Christmas Seal and what it has accomplished in the way of prevention and cure of tuberculosis.

The judges will resume their work of judging the papers early next week, when they expect to complete their task, after which the winners will be announced by the Lawrence County society.

My New York By James Aswell

Copyright, 1936, Central Press Association

NEW YORK, Dec. 12—Ragout:

From Washington comes the tale of how the President's wife went back stage there at the trout of "Wing less Victory," to congratulate Kath arine Cornell.

Photographers trailed her clamor to the dressing room and even edged inside.

"May we take a picture of you together?" they demanded of Mrs.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Yargo and fam ily have changed their residence from North Main street to Fox ave nue of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Davidson, also of Bessemer.

The odd part about it was that the man was Eric von Stroheim.

• • •

A nurse, shepherding a flock of gilded children from the mansions on the east side of Central Park, had been told to keep her charges free from contamination by the ragged gamins surging on the chill greens

ward from the populous West Side regions.

Suddenly she was alarmed to see her eight-year old master marching down the path with a seven-year old girl—a pert, muddied, blue-eyed miss, obviously hailing from the wrong side of the tracks—on his handie-bars.

She remonstrated with the young man at once, and rather sharply.

"But it's a new game!" he cried.

"We were playing King and Com moner."

• • •

People have been telling me over and over again for years—and of the late the cry has come down in shrillness—that Wall Street is very wicked indeed. It is, the crusaders insist, a sink-hole of greed, dishonesty, sharp practice, and day-and-night

conspiracy to defraud the Innocent

Investor. All its denizens, certainly the second district of Butler township.

Thus, whenever I go down there I catch myself peering into the faces of well-dressed men, hoping to spot

the grifters selling razor blades and phonny radio static removers on corners in the financial district. The brokers who skip in and out of the chambers turn out, when encountered face to face, to be genial, moderately intelligent, even generous former football players from Yale, Amherst and the University of Iowa. You in stinctively feel they'd return your wallet, containing the lottery ticket and the pessimistic letter from your lawyer in the matter of shaking down your boss because you caught cold in a draught while working for him, if they found it in the street.

And in all the hullabaloo over buying stocks "on margin" and the wickedness thereof, I wonder how many folks have reflected that every time they buy a house with a mort gage or a radio or a car or an ice box on "time" they're buying on margin—just as definitely as if it were 100 shares of United States

Steel?

REWARD—Ralph Guldahl has just won $2,500 Miami-Baltimore prize, and Mrs. Guldahl heartily congratulates him.

House-Indus Floor League Starts At "Y" Court Tonight

Eight Teams In Basketball Loop, Carnegie Illinois Steel Defending Champs

Three Games Will Be Played Every Saturday Night In League Through-out Winter

Everything is in readiness for the lid-lifting ceremonies of the 1936-37 House-Indus basketball league at the Y. M. C. A. tonight at 8 o'clock. There will be three games on the evening's bill-of-fare.

There are eight teams in the league this year, the largest number of teams since the organization of the league a few years ago. The Carnegie-Illinois Steel team will be the defending champions, having taken the title last year under the careful coaching of Arnold "Fiz" Fraser.

With several new teams in the league, the loop is going to be much faster this year and the Steelers are going to find the going just a little bit stiffer than last season.

New Teams. The five new teams in the league are the Gersons under Coach Len Friedman, Saks Big Five with Mike Kulich the coach, Keystone A. C. under Andy "Coots" Venditto and the Johnson Bronze team under "Slim" Augustyn and Henry Koszala. The Universal Sanitary A. A. under Lawrence Gibson will be one of the toughest teams in the circuit, it is believed.

The following games will be played tonight in the order listed: Castletons vs House-Seniors. Johnson Bronze vs Carnegie-Illinois Steel.

Saks Big Five vs Universal Sanitary A. A. Players Listed. The following rosters of eligible players have been handed in for the league.

Carnegie Illinois Steel—Ed Skanski, manager player Grommes, Deep, Alexander, Parker, Skanski, Ruha, Justin, Neyman, Hietzen. House-Seniors—Dickie, Keane, S. Teplitz, F. Robinson, Keystone A. C.—Lester Reiter, Nick Gennock, Sam Buliano, James Kearns, Harry Hardig, Joe Cooper, Mike De Miceli, Walter Shook, Dom Correlli, John Teplitz.

Saks Big Five—Kulich, Harris, Cognalls, Nickels, Drury, Lewis, Saks, Levine, Coulter, Fred Tullis, Jerry Kuhn, Powers. Castleton Hotel—Bill Kirkwood, Joe McConaghay, Paul Inauger, Paul Hoagland, Tom Schlosser, Paul McNamara, Jack Thompson, Earl Kuger, Howard Ausein, Otto Kuhn.

Universal Sanitary A. A.—Joe Todd, Joe Cunningham, Arch Ridley, Clarence Clark, Fred Shook, Tom Coopert, Ed Huff, Lawrence Gibson, Henry Summers, Ed Long, Pete Poppell, Joe Adams.

Johnson Bronze Co.—John Corio, Frank Duley, Slim Augustyn, Henry Koszala, Stan McElroy, Dwayne Gibson, Charles Clark, Willard, Jerry Jones, Walter, Weller, Perch, Bonnie Julian.

Gersons—Nickie Ross, Clare Wallace, Emily Williams, Gregory Ross, Tom Strausbaugh, Harold B. Price, Everett Letteman, Peter Avery, Jack Lovelace, Fred Kenona, Cooper, Dick Jones, Russ Kawa.

Ridden by Cubitt, Rough Party overhauled the front running Tom's Boy, three-year-old gelding.

Max Schmeling may depart again for Germany next week, having been informed by the New York boxing commission that while James J. Braddock must defend his title in either February or March with Max as an opponent, James J. has a right to engage in tune-up fights where and when he pleases.

Ralph Guldahl, golfing champion of the year was the odds-on favorite for the $4,000 Nassau open which is now underway. The Radiz euphoric held the favorite position with Leo Mallory, last year's winner, placed far down the list. The Nassau program calls for 18 holes today, two rounds Sunday and a final 18 Monday.

East Brook High's "Bearcats" basketball team handed Princeton High a 37 to 7 defeat last night in a Lawrence county league game at the East Brook court. George Hall was the big star of the battle with 21 of the East Brook points.

East Brook led throughout the game by a wide margin. Finnegan and Reed looked good for the Emerickens. A Dean, Keach and Hogue scored the points for Princeton.

In the preliminary game the East Brook High girls led by the fine work of Miss Jane Walton defeated the Princeton High girls 36 to 6.

years as soccer mentor. His compiled record shows 55 victories, six defeats, and 13 ties. Three of the losses occurred in one season, 1932, when Harvard, Springfield, and Syracuse defeated the Lions. It was the latter team who handed State its last soccer defeat.

Since only four of the Blue and white soccermen who won varsity letters were seniors, next season should find Coach Bill Jeffrey's team continuing its long string of games without defeat. Captain Bill McEwan, of South Hadley, Mass., a high scoring center forward; Phil Barnes, fullback, from Brooklyn, N.Y.; Frank Osterlund, forward, from Norwood; and Woodrow Corman, forward, from Beloit, are the four stars who will graduate next June.

Six juniors and four sophomores were other letter winners. Juniors include: William Borda, Bethlehem; Charles Hosterman, State College; Edward Mandel, Scranton; Sol Miehoff, Philadelphia; Carl Wack, Sturgeon, and Richard Wilde, State College. Sophomores: Richard Haag, North Wales; Francis McGrail, Philadelphia; Walter Painter, West Chester; and Fred Spyker, Centre Hall.

Miehoff, also a member of the varsity baseball and basketball team, was elected captain for 1937. W. Garfield Tomas, of Colver, will succeed Alvin S. Newmeyer, of Philadelphia, as varsity manager. Newmeyer was also awarded a major letter for his services this season.

Penn State's 1936 record in soccer shows six victories and two ties. Coach Jeffrey has developed eight undefeated teams during his eleven years as soccer mentor. His compiled record shows 55 victories, six defeats, and 13 ties. Three of the losses occurred in one season, 1932, when Harvard, Springfield, and Syracuse defeated the Lions. It was the latter team who handed State its last soccer defeat.

Since only four of the Blue and white soccermen who won varsity letters were seniors, next season should find Coach Bill Jeffrey's team continuing its long string of games without defeat. Captain Bill McEwan, of South Hadley, Mass., a high scoring center forward; Phil Barnes, fullback, from Brooklyn, N.Y.; Frank Osterlund, forward, from Norwood; and Woodrow Corman, forward, from Beloit, are the four stars who will graduate next June.

Six juniors and four sophomores were other letter winners. Juniors include: William Borda, Bethlehem; Charles Hosterman, State College; Edward Mandel, Scranton; Sol Miehoff, Philadelphia; Carl Wack, Sturgeon, and Richard Wilde, State College. Sophomores: Richard Haag, North Wales; Francis McGrail, Philadelphia; Walter Painter, West Chester; and Fred Spyker, Centre Hall.

Miehoff, also a member of the varsity baseball and basketball team, was elected captain for 1937. W. Garfield Tomas, of Colver, will succeed Alvin S. Newmeyer, of Philadelphia, as varsity manager. Newmeyer was also awarded a major letter for his services this season.

Falcons To Play Warren Republicans

The Polish Falcons will play the strong Republic Steel quintet of Warren, O., at the Falcon floor on Sunday afternoon at 1:30, it was announced today by Business Manager Russ Kawa.

The Falcon Reserves will meet a fast team in the preliminary game. The Warren team will feature big Joe Kelly, former New Castle high and Keystone A. C. star at forward or center, it is reported.

Four Indicted In Conspiracy

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Dec. 12.—Three men and a woman, who allegedly conspired to "frame" Jack Rufus of Patton township as the killer of Mrs. Martha Westwood, today were under indictment on that charge. They will be brought to trial early next year. They are: John E. Williams, former Wilmerding constable; Armand Trapazanne, 21-year-old WPA worker; Thomas Borden, 45, McKees Rocks electrician, and Mrs. Bessie Bowser, 60, of Patton township. "Squire" Jimmy Westwood is now serving a life term sentence in jail for the slaying of his wife.

Governor Earle Boosts Salaries

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Dec. 12—Minimum wage earners on the commonwealth's employment roster renewed their belief in Santa Claus today following announcement by Gov. George H. Earle that beginning December 1st their salaries would be increased from $900 to $1020 a year.

Announcing that the new ruling would affect 1345 state employees, the governor reiterated his contention "$900 is not a living wage."

Market Turns Higher After Irregular Opening, Steels In Better Demand

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—The stock market turned higher today after an irregular opening.

Steels were in better demand after yesterday's decline and fractional gains were scored by U. S. Steel and others in the group.

There were active dealings in some building shares. Flintkote rose over a point. American Radiator figured in some large blocks but showed little price change. Johns-Manville pointed higher.

Farm implements scored wide gains, running to over 5 points in Case Threshing and nearly 3 points in Deere. Bullish predictions for 1937 continued the factor.

Motors started easy and then firms up to above the previous close but speculative interest in the group was small.

Heavy dealings occurred in the amusements where one block of Paramount totaled 21,000 shares at a slight rise. Heavy profit-taking was noted after the dividends declarations late Thursday. Warner Bros. was somewhat higher.

Rails were mixed, as were the oils. Aviations strengthened. Utilities and coppers were without definite trend.

Bonds were irregularly higher. Cotton and grains were steady.

Ellwood Women Honored Friday

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 12.—One of the most unique and inspiring services of the entire campaign of the series of meetings being conducted by the ministerial association of the city was held last night in the United Presbyterian church under the capable direction of Evangelist Harry Lintz. The theme of the entire service was "The Cross" and the songs and sermon were centered on the cross. A large part of the service as conducted under the subduced light of an electrical cross, suspended over the pulpit. Mr. Lintz introduced his subject by telling of his visit to Mount Calvary and wove through his discourse quotations from many of the hymns of the church.

The closing services of the campaign are announced for Sunday as follows. Two special services will be held, the first starting promptly at 3:15 in the afternoon and the other at seven in the evening.

The afternoon session will be sponsored by the Young People's Council and everybody is invited. The sermon subject will be "The Dedicated Life".

Anniversary For New Post Office

Office Space In New Building Is Already All In

POSTAL SERVICE
HAS ADDED ROOM

New Castle's Federal building on the public square will celebrate its second birthday on Tuesday, December 15—and it approaches that birthday filled to capacity.

Opened December 15, 1934, with a public dedicatory ceremony in the large mailing room now filled with equipment, the building, by far the most imposing edifice in the diamond district, has been taken over steadily by various government branches and today finds no space left for the future establishment of the United States Social Security board's regional office there.

The post office itself fills the greater part of the building, occupying the main floor in its entirety and a large section of the second floor. Part of the basement is in the postal use too.

Served Well Last March

There's still some room for post office expansion, considerable room too—but even at that, at Christmas time, the mailing room looks jammed almost to the overflow point. The large mailing room already has served well in emergencies, notably when the huge east-west mail loads were stranded here last March when Pittsburgh's flood paralyzed rail traffic between New York and Chicago. All the stranded mail packs were piled high in the mailing room, guarded by government men and New Castle police.

Upstairs in the building are offices of the United States Army and Navy recruiting staffs, the Home

THE PARENT PROBLEM

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

WIFE WORKS TOO HARD

As you continue reading the letter from the Iowa young farm mother, begun yesterday, do not be too hard on the father. He probably is imitating his father, and he is undertaking too much. Certainly he is not assigning enough money to the house and his wife.

You will recall that the mother of sitting down in despair to read a magazine, when her husband comes in with, "Why have you not finished with such and such?" with a meaningful look at my open magazine. And then comes the sad part of it—I blow up and flail him with my Irish temper and ever-ready tongue, until I feel better and he feels worse!

"I decided I'd better write someone after blowing up yesterday and today, too. (It's shameful, but I'm trying to be honest.) Yesterday I was getting dinner at 11:15 with the baby just fed and to be put to bed for his nap, and just one piece of my husband's favorite pie left, for dessert, for dinner, when he came in and told me I'd have a man there for dinner. He had been around the building for some while . . . and wanted dinner 15 minutes early."

"Well, I know the answer—some help—but when I mentioned the fact that I guess I'd have to have a hired girl next summer he was outraged. We are moving to a 200-acre farm . . . and will have a burden impossible to bear long. I wish thousands of husbands might read your letter. Very best wishes to you for a good backbone, and don't lose your Irish!"

Army Engineer Speaks In Sharon

Capt. R. M. McCutchen Will Address Electrical Engineers
On Sharon Section

On Tuesday evening, December 15, at 7:45 o'clock, Capt. R. M. McCutchen, of the United States Army Engineering Corps, station at Pittsburgh, will speak to the Sharon section of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers in the assembly room of the First Presbyterian church.

Capt. McCutchen will discuss the part played by the engineering corps in France during the World War, and will follow with a discussion of the improvement of river navigation through the construction of locks, dams and flood control works. His talk will be illustrated and an invitation has been extended to all who are interested to attend this meeting.

Among others who cannot see any benefit to themselves in old age security are gangsters.

On Court House Hill

County Commissioners have appointed Joe Lagnese of Mahoning township as delinquent tax collector for the township, Lee McCombs, the delinquent collector, having resigned.

When the time limit for filing executions had expired on Thursday evening, the total number of executions placed in the hands of Sheriff Edward D. Pritchard for the county was 62. The properties on which the executions were issued will be sold in January. About half of the executions are by the Home Owners Loan Corporation.

Church had no more right to conduct a lottery, lottery, or any other form of gambling, than an individual." He added that he did not feel inclined to prosecute the trustees of the church, while number rackets, bank night, and other forms of gambling were flourishing for profit, while the church took this method of raising money for the benefit of the church. The defendants were fined $1 and costs.

Dr. J. Lumen Popp has filed a suit at the prothonotary's office against Attorney Gilbert E. Long, administrator in the estate of the late Ada B. Steel, to collect from the estate $185, alleged to be due for medical services.

The more the county commissioners look over the books returned by the county assessors, the bigger their headache grows. This is due to the apparent inequalities of valuations in one district as compared with another. There are naturally differences in the value of land, but in many cases the values appear distorted by comparisons. Again, there appears to be a wide difference of opinion as to value of houses that appear to be identical. This has always been the case and it will no doubt continue to exist as long as individual assessors are employed for each district. No matter how careful and conscientious they may be, there is bound to be wide differences of opinion. One board, assessing the whole county, could correct many of the inequalities that now exist, but even such a board could not turn out a "perfect" assessment. The nearest that can be hoped for would be an approximate approach to it.
